FARRAR DIVORCE WILL BE HEARD IN OPEN COURT

Singer's Counsel Ask to Have Part of Tellegen's Reply Nullified for Frivolity.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Lou Tellegen's suit for separation from Geraldine Farrar and her counter-action for divorce will be heard before a jury in open court, if the declared intention of counsel for each side is carried out.

Both Samuel Untermyer, representing Miss Farrar, and Arthur E. Schwartz, counsel for Tellegen, said after a hearing on a preliminary action before Justice Wagner in chambers yesterday that they would insist upon open court proceedings.

The motion was brought up by Mr. Untermyer "to have treated as a nullity on the ground of being frivolous and a sham" part of Tellegen's reply to his wife's counterclaim. It did not appear on the calendar of the supreme court yesterday morning, but was called by the clerk in chambers.

As soon as Justice Wagner makes his decision, Mr. Schwartz said he would move to have Tellegen's suit consolidated with Miss Farrar's action. Mr. Untermyer is expected to oppose this motion.

Because of the great number of legal points involved in the two suits one lawyer working on the case yesterday expressed the opinion that it would not be ready for trial within a year.

MEDBURY

Says a Lot of Us Are on the Road to Success, but We Stop in at Too Many of the Road Houses.

By JOHN P. MEDBURY.

Old age is something that a young fellow has to wait a long time to get.

It's usually a sick man who lives the longest. There are so many patent medicines on the market it takes him years to try them all.

The doctor tells you that you only have two years to live; then you live fifteen years and make a fool out of the doctor.

One man said he was going to pass a hundred mile stones, but somebody moved the mile stones.

He as on the road to a hundred, but he stopped in at too many roadhouses.

Some wise guy starts to write a book on "How to Live to Be Ninety," and then he dies before he finishes the book.

Old age creeps to some of us, but to others it gallops.

They say that to reach seventy-five you've got to live clean. Who wants to live that long if you've got to spend your life in a bathtub?

We're given an average time to live so that we can take our time in seeing everything. Some guys see it all in thirty years and then wait around thirty years more doing nothing.

One guy thought he could beat nature and live longer by using the same calendar for three years.

It's hard to understand why a person dies, but it's harder to understand why a lot of them live.

Old age is a wonderful thing. If it isn't wonderful why do we spend so much time waiting for it?

Methuselah lived to be nine hundred, but everything took much longer in those days.

His wife lived to be over six hundred, so he only had to spend three hundred years of his life alone.

Their son died when he was just a baby, two hundred years old. Methuselah said to his wife "I knew we'd never raise that boy."

Methuselah wanted to live to a ripe old age, but he was over-ripe.

A well-known man says that nobody can be alive unless they work hard. If this is true, then there are a lot of guys who ought to send for death certificates. (Copyright, 1921, Premier Syndicate, Inc.)

CONGRESS MAY BE ASKED TO AID FAMINED RUSSIA

Relief Bodies Ready to Ask Harding for Federal Help for Dying Hordes.

By W. H. ATKINS.

International News Service.

Russia's condition, from disease and starvation, has become so desperate that relief bodies may join in a request to President Harding that he urge Congress to appropriate enough money to finance the purchase of food and supplies for immediate relief of the Russian people. Such a proposal was under consideration today.

Senators and Congressmen were impressed with the story they heard today from former Gov. James P. Goodrich of Indiana, just back from Russia, after a six weeks' study of the famous area.

Governor Goodrich said that unless Russia is helped now, a substantial part of the more stable element among the population—those who pursue farming for a livelihood—will be literally wiped out through starvation.
